

Website Creator

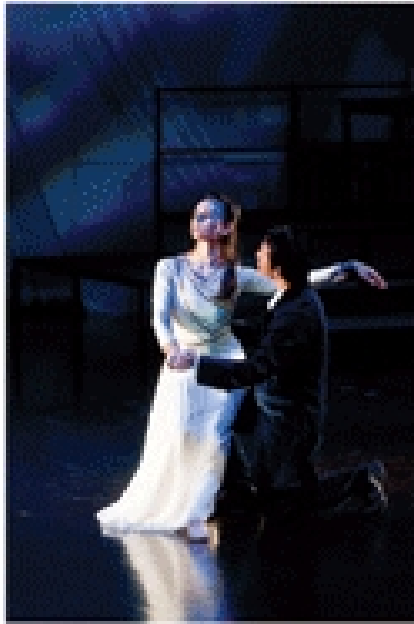

Samuel Myat San is addicted to debate. In creating this website, he has drawn on thousands of hours of experience as a debater, adjudicator, coach and tournament organizer. He was captain of the Anglo-Chinese Junior College Debate Team and the Singapore National Debate Team. He was also vice-president of the Harvard University Speech and Parliamentary Debate Society, a tenure that focused on training new Harvard Debaters and judges for the Harvard University Debate Tournament.

After college, he turned to coaching teams in Singapore such as ACJC and Nanyang Girls High School. In recent times, he has focused his attention on developing debate teams and oratory programmes in schools without a tradition of English debate, such as Dunman High School, Chung Cheng High School (Yishun), Kuo Chuan Presbyterian Secondary School and Evergreen Secondary School. After a stint in the Singapore Civil Service with the Ministry of Defence, Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Ministry of Law, he is now a full time debate coach.

To contact Sam, send emails to myatsan@debateable.org

Supported by

 Anglo-Chinese Junior College
West Zone Centre of Excellence in Language Arts

Anglo-Chinese Junior College is a member of the West Zone Centre of Excellence in Language Arts, part of the Anglo-Chinese Education Group, which is a member of the Education Council of Singapore.